LENTEN ALMSGIVING REFLECTION

CRS in Nigeria

Since Catholic Relief Services was able to reenter Nigeria in 2000, it has supported several programs for improving children's health. Our contributions will help many children, especially through the CRS program that focuses on malnourished children under five who live in households in the northeast that are affected by the insurgency of Boko Haram. The children are screened house-to-house to evaluate their health. CRS then enrolls the children identified with moderate acute malnutrition into the CRS-run supplementary feeding program "Tom Brown." In addition, children with severe acute malnutrition are referred to outpatient therapeutic feeding programs and health facilities.

"Tom Brown" has been a popular dish for generations in West Africa. It is available in a mix form and is particularly nutritious. The mix can be bought in stores, but high levels of poverty make this a luxury many cannot afford. So, CRS teaches families how to make it themselves, trying to help them before their malnutrition symptoms become worse. It is a simple recipe made with local staples like soybeans, millet, sorghum and peanuts. Another problem is a general lack of awareness of children's specific nutritional needs. Through a program supported by CRS, women learn about the nutritional value of breastfeeding and hygienic practices, especially with infant food preparation.

Secret Smiles

All children should have a bed. A bed is essential ... for a child's well-being, providing a dedicated and comfortable space for rest. Quality sleep is crucial for physical and cognitive development. Beyond the physical benefits, having a bed offers emotional security, fostering a sense of stability and personal space for a child. Overall, having a bed is integral to a child's overall health, comfort, and emotional development. Since 2001, Secret Smiles has provided over 9,700 beds to children in the Miami Valley.
